

Battery cabinet lead-acid

What is a battery cabinet / rack? EverExceed designs customized battery cabinets / racks for individual batteries. The cabinet or racking system can be specified to accommodate any battery cell. From flooded to sealed, from lead acid to nickel cadmium and from vertical to horizontal all kinds of battery cabinet / rack can be designed flexibly to save the space in battery room. Why do you need a battery cabinet? Ease of use is one of the principle selling points for battery cabinets. It is convenient to service the equipment when the UPS and the battery (ies) are right next to each other. Conversely, it is inconvenient to have to go to a separate room when open-rack batteries are installed. Are battery cabinets safe? Authorized personnel must be trained in battery safety. Battery cabinets must enclose the batteries behind locked doors accessible only to authorized personnel. As long as the cabinets are kept locked, they can be located in a computer room or other rooms accessible by non-battery technicians. Do battery cabinets have top clearance? Battery cabinets are frequently criticized for their lack of top clearance. For example, in a cabinet containing multiple strings of low ampere-hour batteries, there might be several shelves, each with one string of cells. The cell units on each shelf might be arranged two, three, or more cells deep. What is a VRLA battery assembly cabinet? EverExceed VRLA battery assembly cabinets are very durable, and easy to install. Engineered for use with most type of battery terminal models, these cabinets can fit a wide variety of applications. This solution is completely customizable and flexible to support your application requirement. When should a battery cabinet be locked? Cabinet doors should be locked at all times when the cabinet is not being serviced. Various approaches to securing a battery cabinet include frames or straps under the raised floor.
