Cameroon is set to construct two solar power plants in Ngaoundou and Maroua by . Funded by the European Union, the project aims to generate 30 MW of clean energy to boost the country's electricity supply. On Friday 22 September , Cameroon's Minister of Water and Energy, Gaston Eloundou Essomba, inaugurated the 36 MWp Maroua and Guider solar photovoltaic power plants. The facilities, which have been in service for several months, serve the northern part of Cameroon. Large-scale solar energy 10 June , Cameroon/Norway: Release by Scatec has entered into two new lease agreements with the national electricity company ENEO in Cameroon, expanding its existing solar and battery storage power plants in the country to 64.4 MW of solar and 38.2 MWh of batteries. Release completed the The energy of Cameroon - MyEasyLight, your e-agency Eneo will double the generation capacity of the solar power plants in Maroua and Guider Commissioned in September , these structures will as such transition from 35.8 Megawatts of solar and 19 Megawatts/hour of storage on batteries to 64.4 Cameroon is set to construct two solar power plants in Ngaoundou and Maroua by . Funded by the European Union, the project aims to generate 30 MW of clean energy to boost the country's electricity supply. Cameroon is advancing its energy sector by constructing two solar power plants in In northern Cameroon, new solar power plants are transforming electricity access in towns like Guider and Maroua, long dependent on the aging Lagdo hydroelectric dam. Recurring droughts had reduced Lagdo's output, but since , the addition of 18-megawatt solar plants has stabilized supply and Cameroon's national electricity utility Eneo has recently inaugurated two solar plants with 30MW capacity.
